

This week's News Features...

Month at a Glance

- about cambrian
- our programs
- latest news
- student 411
- applied research
- homepages
- contact us
- ask cambrian
- search

1400 Barrydowne Road
Sudbury, Ontario
Canada P3A 3V8

(705) 566-8101

© Cambrian College
All Rights Reserved.

Cambrian Students Complete International Computer Driver's Licence Program

On December 15, students in Cambrian's Software Engineering Technology program received their International Computer Driver's Licence (ICDL) certificates, making them the first Cambrian students to complete the program.

ICDL is the international standard of competence for Canadian computer users. Through this program, individuals or employees can develop their competence and expertise in information technologies. The Licence is awarded upon successful completion of the program.

Cambrian College is an ICDL Authorized Test Centre and is one of five colleges piloting a project to utilize ICDL certification in community colleges to assess essential computer skills and learning and to raise awareness of the need for essential computer skills among Ontario employers.

Top Row (L to R) Darren Liske; Terry Gray, Professor, Cambrian College; Brian Alberton; Matthew Rivett; John Hood, Dean, School of Computer and Engineering Technology, Cambrian College;
Front Row (L to R) Saba Nashi; Sonia Del Missier, Vice President Academic, Cambrian College; David Tessier; Michael Kainola.

